

Nicolas Ruel photography

Saturday, October 20, 2007

OO god! This is my first entry! I am not sure why, out of my selection, I decided to pick a photographer! His name is Nicolas Ruel, and he comes from Montreal, Canada. I don't remember how I encountered in his art, but his style is magnificent! In the study of design, sometimes it's hard to define why something is pleasing to our eyes. Sometimes it has to do with the golden ratio or with the familiarity of certain images. In this case I believe it is a combination of exiting contrasted colors, smooth and provocative shapes, and the texture created within the picture. All Nicolas works are printed on large format sheets of stainless steel and they are currently showing at the Toronto International Art Fair but he will soon visit Paris with his personal exhibition called INOX! Check his website, explore his world and enjoy the music.
